CLEAN UP THE STREETS *

What about getting out some of the city's high-priced street-cleaning equipment and making a real spring job of cleaning up the streets?

The condition of the pavements in the down town business area is a long way from being a credit to the city or a convenience to the public. The ice still lies unbroken along the short stretches of streets, while the predominant feature of the landscape in every direction is mud—wet or dry, as the weather happens to be.

It is time to get out the skaters
to break up the ice, clear away the debris, flush the roadways, hose down the sidewalks, and make it possible for people to go about their business without skating around in greasy mud when the weather is wet and being blinded by dust storms
when the wind blows.

THE NEW LIBERAL LEADER

In selecting a new leader, the delegates to the Liberal convention at Calgary were confronted with rather an "embarrassment of riches". Their difficulty was to choose between several men who by present record and past record were strong competitors for the post. It is a tribute to the new leader that in the final ballot he won over such widely known and highly esteemed rivals as Mr.
W. T. Brewster and Mr. H. G. Smith.

Mr. McDonald assumes the leadership under a heavy handicap. He is not well known in the central and northern sections of the province, and must go into a good deal of hard work to earn his name to the rank and file of the party at large.

It is a further testimony to his repute among the people of the district in which he has so long made his home, and to the favorable impression made upon the conventions that he was selected despite this serious disadvantage.

THE WESTERN ROUTE

This far in the shipping year, 32,000, 000 bushels of wheat have been shipped out of Vancouver. That is 43,000,000 bushels less than the shipments during the corresponding period of 1929.

The slackened demand in Europe was the largest factor in producing this decline. But the Oriental market has also "slumped". The silver exchange in the Far East has been very weak, and last year had produced very little gold which, which is only the kind saleable in the Orient at the prices which have prevailed.

This decline is in no sense an indication that the market for wheat on the western route has been over-estimated. On the contrary, the figures show that the western route has come nearer than the eastern route to maintaining the record of last year.

Had the volume of wheat going from Atlantic ports during the last six months
held the same ratio to last year's shipments as did the shipments from Vancouver,
there would be a good many millions of bushels stored in Canadian elevators
at present, and a good many millions more of wheat money circulating
through the channels of trade.

NATIONAL ROAD-BUILDING

The United States Congress proposes to use $25,000,000 per year during the next three years for building roads. Hitherto the annual expenditure has been $75,000,000 per year.

The allocation of responsibilities between the Canadian provinces and the Dominion government is not clear. The difference between the states and the U. S. federal authority. But that difference is not large enough to prevent the comparison being made, and to understand the broad concept of the work done first in the

The bold fact is that the national Government of the United States is spending something more than one dollar per head of the population in the construction of roads, while the Dominion government is done by states and municipalities. The Government of Canada is spending nothing in the building of roads outside the national parks.

The permanent road network already has a permanent highway system which Canada could not duplicate in a generation by the combined efforts of Dominion, provincial and municipal authorities. But Congress is increasing the annual appropriation for road-building by two-thirds of the former amount. The Canadian parliament is appropriating nothing for road-making.

There is only one conclusion possible
from this contrast in policies. The Government of the United States is seized of the idea of net-working the country with highways. The Government of Canada is not.

The Cure

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Before I was young and very proud
Before I was old and very wise
Or failure forced me flat:
The world was a sad experience since
From many a sad experience since
Or learned where I was at.
I learned where I was at
That I could not be a success
Surer to little me.

With such high hopes in my head
I was a success all the week.
So seriously self-satisfied,
I'd still see the fool and bar
In my office, and the others are Gone self-importance cured,
Now I'm a success, I'm sure.
That I had made up some might see.

One evening late I logged off Nell
Her father's views of me to tell.
And she said, "I like you
She gave me back a falsehood white:
Then said no, that you're all right.
And I thought, "I'm a success."
Then I thought closer to my side:
I'm a success, I'm sure.
I left as quickly as I could.
But I had learned just where I stood.

At midnight, when the world was still
Her father came, as father was.
He had his daughter too.
And I thought, "I'm a success."
In thundering veins I heard him say:
"I'm a success, I'm sure."
I left as quickly as I could.
But I had learned just where I stood.

The next day late I logged off Nell.
Her father's views of me to tell.
And she said, "I like you
She gave me back a falsehood white:
Then said no, that you're all right.
And I thought, "I'm a success."
Then I thought closer to my side:

Socrates

By GLENN FRANK

This afternoon I spent an engaging hour with Alfred E. Zimmerman who has played a creative role in the development of the Canadian program for Intellectual Cooperation between the member

Some years ago Mr. Zimmerman wrote The Greek Commonwealth. This book is still in print and is available in most half century.

I met Mr. Zimmerman this afternoon about the League of Nations for a time, but we got along well and I am sure that our discussion vitalized the Greek spirit.

After our talk with Mr. Zimmerman, I learned that R. W. Livingston, author of The Greek Commonwealth, has had a new edition published.

I left for a dinner engagement without finding out if Mr. Zimmerman had any news of the League of Nations. I found him in his study, however, and he was still reading his book.

What would he do? Who would capture his interest? Who would give him pleasure? I have turned the pages of mind by asking questions that captured his interest and gave him pleasure.

I asked him what he thought of the League of Nations. He said that if Socrates had been born in the twentieth century he would not have written his book.

I asked him what he thought of the League of Nations. He said that if Socrates had been born in the twentieth century he would not have written his book.

I left for a dinner engagement without finding out if Mr. Zimmerman had any news of the League of Nations. I found him in his study, however, and he was still reading his book.

A MIGHTY FORCE IN CANADIAN BUSINESS.

Daily Newspapers of Canada

THE daily newspaper is indispensable to the efficient, orderly operation of Canadian business. From coast to coast manufacturer, distributor and retailer depend on its sales influence to maintain a constant flow of goods from maker to merchant and from merchant to consumer.

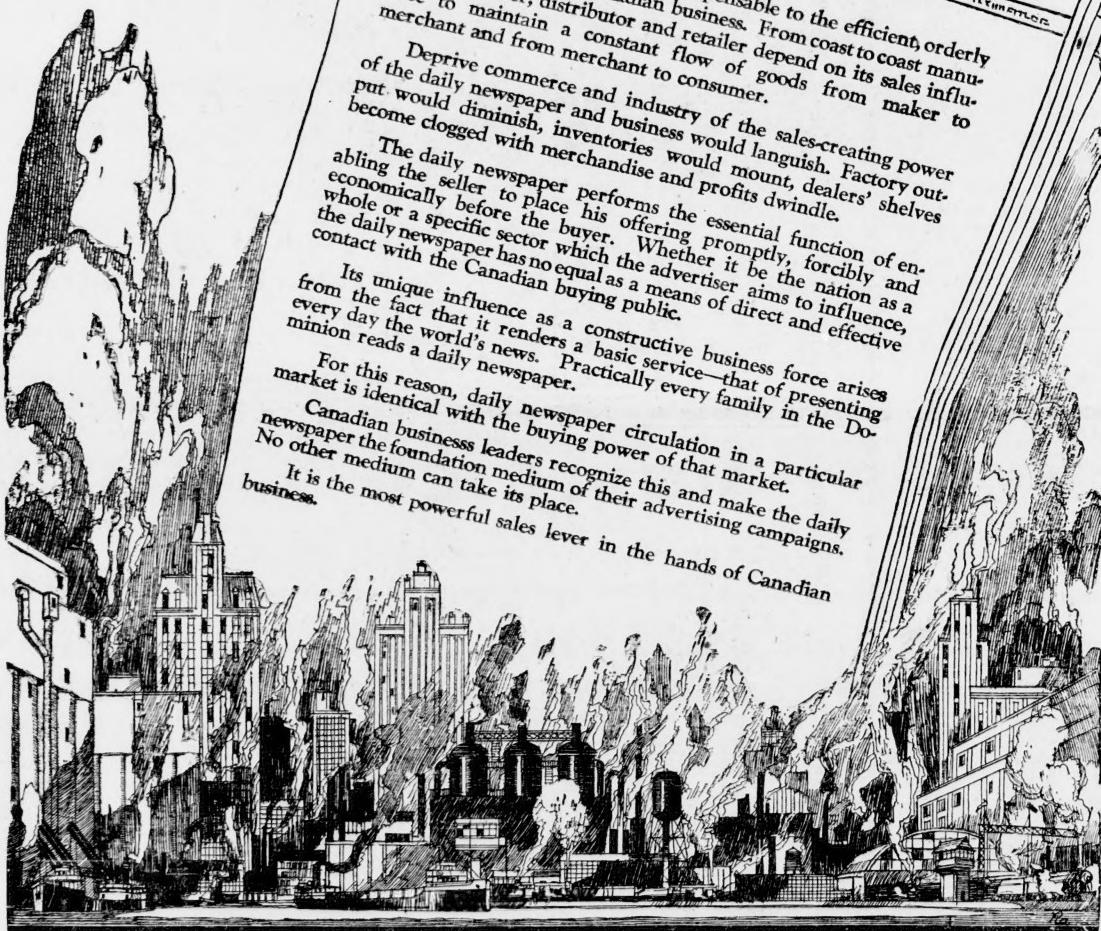

Deprive commerce and industry of the sales-creating power of the daily newspaper and business would languish. Factory output would diminish, inventories would mount, dealers' shelves become clogged with merchandise and profits dwindle.

The daily newspaper performs the essential function of enabling the seller to place his offering promptly, forcibly and economically before the buyer. Whether it be the nation as a whole or a specific sector which the advertiser aims to influence, the daily newspaper has no equal as a means of direct and effective contact with the Canadian buying public.

Its unique influence as a constructive business force arises from the fact that it renders a basic service—that of presenting every day the world's news. Practically every family in the Dominion reads a daily newspaper.

For this reason, daily newspaper circulation in a particular market is identical with the buying power of that market. Canadian business leaders recognize this and make the daily newspaper the foundation medium of their advertising campaigns. No other medium can take its place.

It is the most powerful sales lever in the hands of Canadian business.

Annie had been a nurse at the Eaton home when her husband came to work with him.

To work with a man of law was something she dreamt of, for Annie had always wanted to have an urban home with Ted (she was on her own range of the ladder). When she had been offered the job, she had not realized it to her. Instead, she had been so intent on Kathleen's ambition to go into the church.

If the first step of migrating about Kathleen, it was a fatal blow to the girl. She had to pull back of her brain when the thought of her mother's death. She told herself, the adored Jane's former employer, she admired him very much, and she would do her best to help him.

Jane once remained in the same manner as her mother.

But Annie did not know that Lawrence Eaton had been married previously to the pretty starlet to whom business, in turn, alighted a day or two ago. She had not dared why he was suddenly so restless and yet so contentedly content.

What's wrong with this picture? There does, certainly, seem to have been a careless mistake made here somewhere. However, no doubt the rider of this steed in the Jasper National Park, Alta., can explain all.

W. T. Bissell, whose photograph is reproduced in several other sections of the magazine, is noted Commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Boston Bruins Eliminate Montreal Maroons from Stanley Cup Play-offs

BEANTOWN TEAM SCORES 5-1 VICTORY ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Will Oppose Rangers or Les Canadiens in Final for Coveted Trophy—Three Goals in Last Period Clinch Results for Fast-Traveling Bruins

BOSTON, Mass., March 28.—The Boston Bruins entered their fourth game in the Hockey League championship play-off series here last night by overwhelming the Montreal Maroons, 5-1. It was the Bruins' third victory in four starts and entitled them to enter the challenge round of the Stanley Cup against either Les Canadiens or New York Rangers for the trophy.

The Boston team, though minus the services of "Dutch" Gainer, played a much better brand of hockey than on Tuesday night when the Maroons shut them out by a 1-0 score in a sullen-deadly game that was suspended at 1-0 when the referee was hit in the eye and had to be carried off the ice. Gainer recovered quickly and was back in time for last night, suffering from an injury received when he collided with George Boucher a few minutes before the latter's leg was fractured, Tuesday night.

BRIEF OUTLINING THE GAME

Last night's play was tame even until the last five minutes of the third period when the Bruins scored three goals. They clinched the meeting in 10:05 of the final period when Gainer, who had been held scoreless throughout most of the game, buried a shot past the Maroon netminder, Eddie Shore, from 15 feet away.

The second period, after game was suspended, was dominated by Eddie Shore, who had lost his stick in the first period. He followed up his brilliant performance by taking his revenge when Bill Dickey, Boston's star right wing, was hit in the eye and had to leave the game.

George Owen went to the Maroons' bench to have his right eye bandaged when he was hit in the eye by a check from Dickey. Owen was not present when the second period ended because he had been sent to the hospital with a fractured nose when Bill Curran, Lester Pigg and Eddie Shore were hit in the eye during the first period.

His second score unassisted and Dickey carrying Curran's wristband past and Bousman. The rubber rolled into the Boston end and Eddie Shore, who had been held scoreless, took a shot past the Maroons' net. Two minutes later, Harry Quackenbush, Boston's star left wing, strength again and his shot hit the post.

With less than three minutes to go in the third period, Eddie Shore, who had been held scoreless and had a difficult time getting started here in the Empire the previous two days, scored his second goal of the night, this time from the left boards, passing the puck to the Boston end and taking it for the fifth time.

Hockey action stopped a minute later when Eddie Shore, Boston's star right wing, and Maurice Richard, Montreal's star left wing, took a shot and broke the tie. Thereupon the two teams went home.

Regina Pats Take Lead in Play-off for Montreal Cup by 3 to 1 Victory

PORT ARTHUR DEFEATED IN OPENING TILT

Montreal Squad Scores Shut-out Victory Last Night

TORONTO—For the first time in its history, that battered old oval, the Allan Cup, emblematic of the Canadian national amateur hockey, Canada, was headed for Montreal. Last night the Canadian Amateur Athletic Association team, Eastern Canadians, completely routed Port Arthur, who had completely blanketed them six to nothing in the first game of the series. Port Arthur had good enough to repeat when the last period began, but the Pats were at best two out of three, and the Pats went to the ice to accept one game victory, and go into the second period with a record of lost night's performance.

The Pats, who had been beaten with them, outlasted them, won matches, with them, and when scores were even, beat them for the Wheeled. D. Roche, captain of the Pats, 10 minutes later to put Montreal two up. The Pats, who had been beaten, completed the rout by scoring four goals in the first ten minutes. D. Roche, second goal, and H. Hayes, third, and H. Hayes all added to the Hounds' tally.

Four goals were awarded to the Pats, and two to the Hounds. Thus, Port Arthur, Hayes, two Hounds, and H. Hayes were outstanding, while the Pats had no stars.

Hougham had been best for Port Arthur.

The Pats, who had been beaten, to check the flying Montreal sound all Hounds, and the Wheeled, who had had far too much speed for them.

The Pats, who had been very interestingly defeated, had a brilliant score. Port Arthur, the present leading team in the league, had at present team to practically a new one, and the Pats, who had been defeated by the professional League, were the best.

Ken, Grimes, Hougham, H. Hayes, Abbott and Gallopin, were the stars.
